I owe Clean Harbors something based on your last memo to me, but I am still figuring out exactly what to tell them. I may touch base with you one more time with you before I respond to them, but I don't think you owe me anything right now.

Coincidentally, I got an email from CH yesterday checking in on the status, so I need to get to that one.

Are you in the office today or teleworking?

I have this sinking suspicion that I owe you something...Am I behind on something? Thanks--AJ
